Presidents' Message

Reflections on the eve of our 40th anniversary

Maureen Piercy, Loyalist College President and Alan McAlpine, Alumni Association President

MAUREEN PIERCY: In many ways it seems impossible that Loyalist will be celebrating its 40th anniversary in 2007, yet, when you think about the rapid growth and the advancements the College has made, it is difficult to believe that so much has been accomplished in such a brief span of time.

ALAN McALPINE: I've watched the College undergo such a transformation since I was here as a student from 1970 to 1973. The College was so small then. At break time all of the students and faculty gathered together in the cafeteria in the Pioneer building. We all knew each other by name and friendships were formed that we still enjoy today. The College has played a pivotal role in not just my life, but in my family's as well. Donna, my wife, Travis, my son, and Melissa, my daughter, are all Loyalist grads – this fall, our youngest son Brock is registered to begin classes here. The College has had such an impact on our lives. I'm excited to be able to work as part of the Alumni Association in planning festivities for the 40th anniversary because there is so much to celebrate.

MAUREEN PIERCY: Forty years is a significant milestone. We are now beginning to be enriched by elements that can only be enjoyed through time. Our grads coach varsity teams, teach night school classes, serve on program advisory committees and act as College Board members. As in Alan's story, many of our graduates are now watching their children cross the stage. These individuals are the fabric that Loyalist is made of – people who respect and value the College and want to contribute to its continued growth and success. Many things are changing – but some of the very best things have not. The Loyalist staff still have the same strong commitment to their students and the community. Our learners are still enjoying and growing through their Loyalist experience. The first forty years have given us much to celebrate and we hope that many of you will be able to participate in our anniversary celebrations next year.

Kingston High School This Year's Junior Iron Chef Champions

In February Loyalist's Culinary, and Hotel and Restaurant Management students hosted the fifth annual Junior Iron Chef Competition for high schools in the Quinte and surrounding area. Preliminary competitions were held in the high schools, and the three teams selected for the finals were from Kingston's Loyalist Collegiate Vocational Institute, Prince Edward Collegiate Institute in Picton and Brighton's East Northumberland Secondary School. This year Loyalist Collegiate and Vocational Institute took home the trophy.

COLLEGE COMMUNITY PULLS TOGETHER FOR UNITED WAY

The College was proud to present the United Way with a cheque for $10,000 at the President's Holiday Reception in December. "Thank you to the College community for helping us meet our United Way goal of $10,000. With your support, we were able to increase funds raised by 10% over last year," said Ashley Edwards Scott, Co-Chair of the United Way Campaign at Loyalist.

Loyalist Recognized with Four Awards at Ontario Community Newspaper Association's (OCNA) Annual Awards Ceremony

The College was recognized with four awards at the annual Ontario Community Newspaper Association's Better Newspaper Awards Ceremony in April. These awards recognize excellence of work completed for college or university newspapers in 2005. The College was nominated in three of the college and university categories: Student Photography, Student Feature Writing and General Excellence.

The first place Student Photography award went to Malcolm Taylor, Photojournalism student and Tyler Moylan, Print Journalism student placed third. Print Journalism student Peter Dudley was awarded first place in the Student Feature Writing category and the Loyalist Pioneer, the College's community newspaper, received second for General Excellence.

Bald is Beautiful

In April nursing student Erin Brown and nursing Professor Tammy Armstrong bravely bared their heads to raise money for the Belleville Cancer Unit. Students and staff gathered in the Student Centre in support as Erin and Tammy's heads were shaved for this fundraising event. The proceeds that exceeded $2,500 will be donated to the cancer clinic to buy medications for patients who are unable to afford them, and the hair will be donated to Locks of Love (an organization that makes wigs for children with cancer).

Sharon Campbell Wins Arts Recognition Award

Sharon Campbell, Arts Program Coordinator for the School of Continuing Education at Loyalist, received an Arts Recognition Award from the Quinte Arts Council in May. The Award was presented in recognition of her "outstanding support of and furthering of the arts in the Quinte Region for the betterment of all". Since her arrival at Loyalist in 1988, Sharon has worked with area artists and local associations to build one of the most successful part-time fine arts programs in the province.

AS TOLD TO MARILYN WARREN

Brian Stafford CIVIL ENGINEERING TECHNOLOGY '74

BRIAN STAFFORD WAS RAISED ON THE FAMILY FARM IN Tyendinaga Township and attributes his mechanical aptitude and work ethic to this experience. As we learn about the journey that Brian has travelled over the past 30 years, we will see that his career success extends beyond skill and hard work. Brian is not an individual who accepts things simply as they are. He asks the question “what if?” – then finds a way to make it happen. His current position at EMS-Tech Inc. is Senior Vice-President. As a co-owner, he is also a Director and Secretary Treasurer, positions that involve a broad range of management responsibilities in addition to his technical responsibilities.

“I chose Loyalist College because of its proximity and because I was familiar with the high quality of the technology programs. When I started in 1971, my brother Don was completing his final year of Chemical Engineering Technology. He has since moved to Atlanta where he is a Director in the Lafarge Corporation. I very much enjoyed my time spent at Loyalist and the valuable knowledge gained from very capable instructors such as Ted Belyea, Tony Knowles, Andy Van Andel and Don Pysklywec – just to name a few.”

He continued to make learning a part of his life, completing courses at the Canadian Institute of Management, the Welding Institute of Canada and the Workplace Safety and Insurance Board. He has been the Chapter Chairman for the Ontario Association of Certified Engineering Technicians and Technologists (OACETT), an association he has been a member of for over 30 years.

“My first full-time job after I graduated from Loyalist was at Stephens-Adamson in Belleville, a position I accepted primarily because of the engineering opportunities and mentoring that I would receive. This was a very good decision – one that allowed me to advance my career in leaps and bounds. In 1976, I left Stephens-Adamson for a higher paying job at Corby Distilleries as assistant to the Plant Engineer. The pace of this job was too slow for what I was accustomed to and I returned to Stephens-Adamson after one year.”

In 1988, Peter Sorensen, the Chief Engineer of Stephens-Adamson and Brian resigned from their positions and started their own company called EMS Associates. Two years later they incorporated as a Canadian registered company called EMS-Tech Inc. with a total of six employees. Rapid growth and three office relocations has led them to 699 Dundas Street West in Belleville where they now employ 48 full-time staff. They also have offices in Wilmington, NC (EMS-Tech International Inc.), Amsterdam and Shanghai.

“At EMS-Tech we are not just employer and employees but rather more like a big family. Our team is what has made our success.”

EMS-Tech is currently designing and constructing six self-unloading ships that are being built in China for owners in the USA, Canada and Europe. Each ship requires self-unloading equipment that is valued at five to six million US dollars. They have a patented discharge gate feeder that regulates the flow of bulk cargo from the bottom of the hold to the tunnel conveyor, a C-Loop Elevator and a Discharge Boom. They are also working on Stackers, Bucket Wheel Reclaimers and Shiploader projects in Brazil and Australia.

“EMS-Tech holds a total of four patents, two of which were my invention. One is a special type of spout hoist for high lifts and the other is an arcuate bulk storage system called a Circ-A-Bin.”

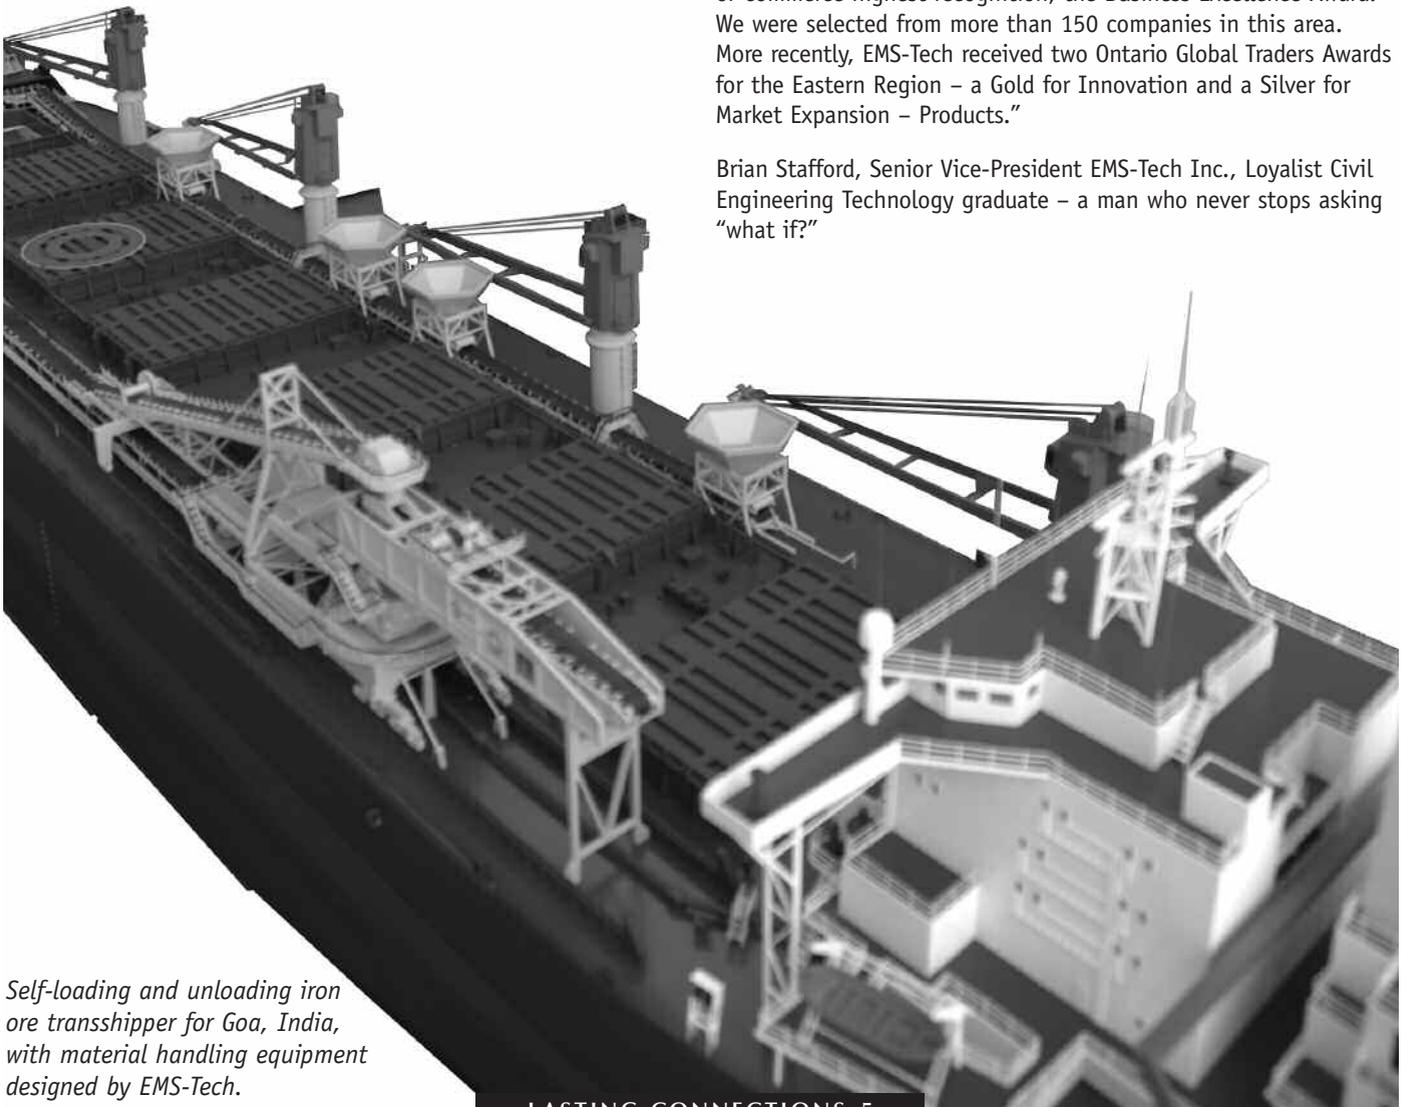

There are few countries where Brian has not been. His passport could be a collector’s item with stamps from Argentina, Aruba, Bahamas, Brazil, Chile, China, Colombia, the Dominican Republic, Egypt, Finland, France, Germany, Hong Kong, India, Indonesia, Israel, Japan, South Korea, Lebanon, Mexico, Netherlands, Norway, Philippines, Singapore, South Africa, Sweden, Switzerland, Thailand, United Kingdom and Venezuela. In 1998 EMS-Tech installed equipment on a ship in South Korea and then commissioned it at Borneo, Indonesia and Thailand. In one year Brian literally made six trips around the world travelling to the Far East, going through Europe and returning through L.A. or Vancouver.

Although Brian has travelled many miles since graduating from Loyalist he continues to remain connected with the College. He has been a member of Loyalist’s Civil Engineering Advisory Committee and taught continuing education courses in Applied Mechanics and Strength of Materials. His company’s confidence in Loyalist graduates is reflected in those they have hired. John Villeneuve, Jon Bateman, Dave Pickering, Dawn Gonyea, Scott Sheridan, Richard Doxtator, Paul Bell, Brian Walker, Brian Moore, George Leverton, Roger Dann and Clair Stafford are graduates of Loyalist technology programs.

Brian’s wife Sharon Stafford (nee Ervine) graduated from the College’s Legal Secretarial program in 1974. Their oldest daughter Kerry has completed Advertising and Personal Support Worker diplomas from Loyalist. Lee Ann, their youngest daughter, has her Psychology degree from the University of Toronto.

“In 2005 we were blessed with the Belleville and District Chamber of Commerce highest recognition, the Business Excellence Award. We were selected from more than 150 companies in this area. More recently, EMS-Tech received two Ontario Global Traders Awards for the Eastern Region – a Gold for Innovation and a Silver for Market Expansion – Products.”

The Loyalist College Pioneers' Association

The Pioneers' Association was formed to give College retirees the opportunity to stay in contact with each other and includes faculty, support staff and administration. The group meets on the third Wednesday of each month. In March, treasurer, Paul Wall reported that he had issued 101 membership cards this year. The Pioneers have been very supportive of many College initiatives. The Alumni Association recently approached them, asking if they would like to be involved with helping to plan and organize the Loyalist Homecoming 2007 when the College will be celebrating its 40th Anniversary. Pioneer members, Carole Parks, Keith Smith and Marilyn Wright volunteered to assist the Homecoming Committee.

For many of you, members of the Pioneers' Association are an important part of your Loyalist memories. We thought we'd touch base with a few of them and find out what they've been doing to keep busy.

Dorothy Brown taught for 20 years in Adult Retraining which later became known as Academic Upgrading. She left the College in 1991. "My favourite part of being at Loyalist was teaching adults. They were so highly motivated. Since leaving the College I have done quite a bit of travelling and have enjoyed having time to spend on my artwork. There is now more time for community activities and I'm active with the Belleville Art Association and church groups. My most recent venture was to sell the house that I had lived in for 50 years and move to a smaller place."

There are few people who don't know Marilyn Wright (Vesterfelt) who worked at the College for 29 1/2 years as switchboard operator and in duplicating. Marilyn definitely had her finger on the pulse of Loyalist, greeting everyone by name as they entered the building. "I always loved the students. In those days they saw me before they saw anyone else in the building. I'm still on the Board for Bridging the Gap, an after school program started at Loyalist 25 years ago that is still running at Queen Mary School. I volunteer at the oncology department at the hospital, at Eastminster United Church and work in the box office at the Theatre Guild. Rita Garvin and I joined the Pioneers together as we were really the only ones that knew almost everyone. We would set up tables and make coffee, and try to make everyone feel at home."

Donald Davenport taught in the Information Systems Program at the College for 22 years and for many years was coordinator of the program. He left the College in 1996 to enjoy an early retirement. "I had spent 15 years in industry prior to working at Loyalist and that gave me a solid background for teaching. The greatest reward for me was hearing from a graduate and listening to them describe a new job they had just acquired.

I've kept busy with several activities. First, I'm an active member of the Board of Directors for Pathways to Independence. Pathways maintains a head office facility in Belleville and is a social service entity providing assistance to individuals with developmental challenges and acquired brain injuries. The agency supports over 200 people in the region from Ottawa to Trenton. Board work involves not only monitoring the current operations of the agency but considerable time is also spent in planning for its future direction. I'm researching my family history and maintain an interest in computers, music and photography."

Frank Jefferson joined the College in 1971 and taught in the Chemical Engineering Technology program for 25 years, retiring in 1996. "Following retirement, I taught part time in the department for two years. I immediately joined the Loyalist College Pioneers' Association to maintain contact with the many friends that were made over the years with faculty, support staff and administration. When asked to assume the Chair of the Association, I accepted, knowing I could contribute to the continued success of this group. I'm a member of the Probus Club of Belleville and have been on their management committee for the past five years and am currently serving a year as president of the club. My wife Donna and I are handweavers and members of the local guild and active members of Bridge Street Church. I've continued my membership in the Professional Engineers of Ontario and, after 50 years, have been made a Life Member of the Chemical Institute of Canada."

I'll never forget the day in August 1976 that changed my life.

My parents had just been transferred from St. John's, Newfoundland to CFB Trenton. I was 19 and, after finishing my semester at University in St. John's, I joined the family in Trenton. At my mother's urging (isn't that always the case) I drove to Loyalist College and asked about enrolling. I hadn't even read the course calendar until I was sitting in the registrar's office. I flipped to Radio Broadcasting. Suddenly the On-Air light clicked and I said, "I know how to do that." While my dad was stationed in Kapuskasing, Ontario, the high school had a radio club and I spent two years doing a school radio show once a week. I didn't realise you could go to school to learn broadcasting so I walked upstairs to meet Brian Olney and after a short interview he said, "I've got one opening left in the class. It's yours if you want it." So began my career in broadcasting.

I made the volleyball team and got involved with the outdoor education program. I actually helped Greg Gavin (Loyalist's Director of Athletics) promote the program by producing a slide show with music about our canoe trips to Algonquin Park. (Don't ask about running the van off the road.) In a short time, I landed a part-time weekend job at CKWS in Kingston. For the next year-and-a-half, I hitch-hiked, took the bus, got rides with friends (Rose and her little Mustang) and eventually drove myself to and from Kingston every weekend. Now that I had some money, I also hooked up with a couple of roommates and moved into a new apartment building being built on Palmer Road. A lot of students moved in there and it became quite the party place. After the first year of college, I landed a summer job with the grounds-keeping crew at Loyalist, while still working weekends in Kingston. Yes, many of the trees and shrubs and a lot of the grass got their start with my hands. During my second semester, a job opening came up at CJBQ in Belleville and News Director, Mike Beaton gave me a chance. Oh, there were a few hiccups as I juggled my new job with trying to finish college and my very active social life. However with Brian Olney's help, I was able to finish the program and received my diploma.

In August of 1979 I applied to some radio stations in the West, and accepted a job in Cranbrook, B.C. I packed up my 1974 Maverick and Randy Quinn and I (he was a DJ on CJBQ) headed west, stopping at towns along the way where Loyalist radio grads were working. Cranbrook is where I met my wife Anita and we had our first child, Mike. In 1983 it was on to Penticton, B.C. and then on to CFCN Radio in Calgary in 1985. I worked in radio until 1989, winning several RTNDA awards and a National Radio award (Nellie) for investigative and feature reporting. Then there was a job opening upstairs in a TV station and I worked at CTV Calgary until 1999, developing the position of a full-time consumer investigator and eventually anchoring the weekend news. In 1992 my wife had a second child, Breanne. I crossed the street to join Channel 7, now Global TV, and continued my consumer reporting until I became the co-anchor of the evening news until 2005. I returned to consumer reporting and still fill in as anchor when needed.

I am very involved with several literacy-based charities in Calgary. I help organizations like Literacy Alberta and Calgary Reads develop communications and PR programs. I read for Voiceprint, a national reading service for the blind and visually impaired and I am a tutor with a grade one student in the Calgary Public Library, Read with Me program. I read and write for a living and it's my way of giving something back.

I have recently re-connected with the Alumni Association and I will be running a Western Alumni Chapter. I look at it as an opportunity to trade stories and connect with people you haven't seen in a while – and of course help new grads with job opportunities in the west. I will also be a contact for any grads looking for jobs in broadcasting. I still keep in touch with old friends and classmates and I continue to meet other Loyalist grads regularly. It's been 30 years since I first pulled up to Loyalist and got the last opening in the radio class. To this day, my time at Loyalist is a highlight in my life and I wouldn't be where I am without it.

Western alumni members interested in becoming involved can contact Tony at ttighe@globaltv.com or by phone at 403-235-7795.

KEN KINGSTON, RADIO BROADCASTING '79

...IN THE EAST

Momentum is building as the Loyalist Alumni Chapter in Atlantic Canada establishes itself. In the winter edition of Lasting Connections we introduced you to Ken Kingston, who graduated from the Radio Broadcasting program in 1979. He got the idea of an alumni chapter after learning more about his partner's active alumni association at St. Francis Xavier University in Antigonish, Nova Scotia.

"Reaction to the article in Lasting Connections about my idea of launching an alumni chapter in the Atlantic region was immediate," Ken said. "Just days after my copy of Lasting Connections arrived in the mail, I began getting e-mails from alumni members in Atlantic Canada, expressing interest in getting a chapter going."

As the e-mails kept coming, he said that alumni members began suggesting names of friends who were also graduates of Loyalist. The numbers are building. "So far, I've been contacted by graduates in Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Newfoundland," he said. "We're a small group right now, but I'm excited by the enthusiasm of those who have contacted me. We've been in touch with each other regularly through e-mail, talking about possible dates, and what we could do for a first event."

Ken says the group is looking at having an event on the weekend of July 8th in Halifax. "Several ideas have been suggested about what we could do, but it looks like we'll gather together at a restaurant for a dinner. Initially, I'd like this group to be a social one, gathering a couple of times a year to meet perhaps some old classmates, share experiences they had at Loyalist and maintain that connection with the College."

Ken, News Director at X-FM (CJFX-FM) radio in Antigonish, says he's excited about the potential of an alumni chapter in Atlantic Canada. "The Alumni Association tells me there are about 250 Loyalist grads living in this region. As the word gets out about our group, I'm optimistic more graduates will get involved. The Alumni Association has been fantastic with this project. They've been extremely helpful and supportive from the very beginning."

Atlantic Canada alumni members interested in becoming involved can contact Ken via e-mail at: kingston\_mckeown@yahoo.ca; by telephone at (902) 386-2358 or by mail at 1776 Summerside Road, RR1 Afton Station, NS BOH 1A0

Student Excellence Recognized at Athletics Luncheon

In January Loyalist recognized 24 students for their athletic, academic and leadership excellence. The students were presented with scholarships at the luncheon held in the College's Club 213.

The following athletes were this year's scholarship recipients: women's volleyball players Dominique Dawes, Leanne Reedyk, Justine Vandenburg, Kati Parks, Charity Garey and Jessica Nelson who were joined by men's volleyball players Bobby Tozer and Quentin Skinner; Leah Kellar from the cross-country team; women's soccer team members Mindee Fillion, Markie Warren, Sonya Korver, Terri Relf, Rachael Gregory and Jessica Wood; four members of the women's basketball team, Jordan McConnell, Ellen McCracken, Kaela Lalonde and Heather Velthuis; and, Derek Webb, Owen White, Andrew Dacosta, Craig O'Connell and Ben-Micah Theophilus who were selected as recipients from the men's basketball team.

A Special Tribute

A SPECIAL TRIBUTE WAS PAID TO GREG GAVIN, LOYALIST COLLEGE DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS, for his dedication and the contributions he has made to athletics in his 30 years with the College.

"Greg has taken a small college, with limited resources and built an athletics program that is known and respected not only in Ontario but across Canada," commented Jim Buck, Assistant Athletics Director. "Greg always attributes his predecessor, Rob Stinson, with drawing up the blueprint for what athletics at Loyalist would become. I feel that we have to credit Greg as being the architect who took those plans and built them into the amazing program that we have here today. His philosophy has always been 'something for everyone' and as a result of that we are one of the few colleges to offer outdoor education opportunities to our student body. He has built a dynasty with our men's volleyball program resulting in six provincial titles in the last 11 years and three national medals. His belief that academics should be each student's primary focus is evident in the number of our students who earned CCAA and OCAA standing this year. If you were to ask our students or any of his peers they would tell you that Greg is one of the most respected athletics directors and volleyball coaches in our province."

38th Annual Athletics Banquet

In April Loyalist held its 38th Annual Athletics Banquet to recognize the excellence of its athletes, coaches and trainers. Dominique Dawes, varsity volleyball player, was named Female Athlete of the Year and Owen White, a member of the men's varsity basketball team, was presented with the Male Athlete of the Year award.

"The highlight of my two years of playing varsity basketball at Loyalist was definitely during my first year when we came first in the Eastern Region – but as a whole package, it's been the people I've met, the coaching staff, the road trips and the challenge of this level of competition," said Owen White, this year's Male Athlete of the Year. "Being part of the team definitely helped ease my transition from high school to college. You get to meet students from all different programs, not just as teammates, but those that come to the games to cheer us on. I feel very honoured to receive this award. It's going to be hard to leave, but I'll be back to participate in any way that I can. Loyalist will continue to be part of who I am for many years to come."

The Canadian College Athletic Association (CCAA) Academic All-Canadian Awards

go to a distinguished few whose academic excellence is proven by earning recognition on the Dean's List and who are also named as Provincial All Star in their sport. Loyalist College was proud to recognize varsity players Jessica Wood, women's soccer; Dominique Dawes, women's volleyball; Bobby Tozer, men's volleyball; and Leah Kellar, women's cross country, with this honour.

Scott Reid Memorial Scholarship

Harvey Reid, Director of the Scott Reid Foundation and Scholarship Fund, presented Craig O'Connell, Loyalist student with a $1,000 Scott Reid Memorial Scholarship. This is the fifth consecutive year the foundation has presented this scholarship to a member of the Men's Lancer Basketball Team. This year's Scott Reid Fund-raising Golf Tournament will be held at Trillium Wood on June 23. # Ontario Trust for Student Support Raises Over One Million Dollars for Loyalist

We are delighted to announce the addition of more than $1 million to the College's resources for student financial assistance. The announcement was made at the Annual Meeting of the Loyalist College Foundation on May 25th.

The Ontario Trust for Student Support campaign at the College was successful in exceeding its goal of $286,000 by an additional $100,000 by the end of March 2006. Prince Edward-Hastings MPP Ernie Parsons visited Loyalist to celebrate the success of the campaign with a presentation of $777,149, representing the enhanced matching funds provided by the provincial government. Combined with $386,197 received in donations to the College, a total of $1,163,346 has been added to the endowment fund for student financial assistance. These funds are administered by the Loyalist College Foundation, providing awards through the investment income earned by the endowment funds.

College Foundation Chair, June Surgey, expressed her thanks on behalf of all Foundation directors. "I want to thank everyone who has helped us meet the goals set during the past year. It is a remarkable story of support which will continue to provide important assistance for Loyalist College students throughout the future."

Bequest Results in Significant Gift to Loyalist College

Albert Ferris

THE LATE ALBERT FERRIS LEFT AN IMPORTANT GIFT TO LOYALIST COLLEGE IN HIS WILL – A GIFT WHICH WILL CONTINUE TO HELP STUDENTS THROUGHOUT THE FUTURE.

Mr. Ferris named the College as a beneficiary, to receive a major portion of his estate, including his home and 67 acres of land near Enterprise, Ontario. His direction was that the College establish and administer a scholarship program for "worthy and needy" students, and that the trust fund be named the Ferris Scholarship Fund. The property was sold in March, and the proceeds were directed to the Ontario Trust for Student Support (OTSS) goal, so that they could be matched by the provincial government. The sale of the property resulted in $138,000 towards the OTSS campaign.

The Ferris Trust Fund will provide wonderful support on an ongoing basis for Loyalist College students. Why did Albert Ferris provide such a generous gift in his will to help individuals studying at Loyalist in the future? Rose deSeara, a good friend of his who has taught Continuing Education courses through the College commented:

"It seems to me that he took some courses many years ago at the College. Albert was a bachelor all his life. He kept very much to himself, was well informed about the state of affairs and had a great sense of humour. What I appreciated most about him was that he was very child-like, had a very contagious laughter and saw the beauty in things and people around him. He was a loyal and dependable friend. I am so happy that Albert's memory will live on through his great donation to your College."

As Rose observes, "What a wonderful contribution to the future of some of your students!" Whatever his motivation, the Ferris Scholarship Fund at Loyalist College will be a lasting legacy to his name and to his generosity to others. The gift will make a real difference in the lives of countless students in future years.

OTSS Campaign Goes Over the Top at Loyalist!

Thank you to the many graduates and friends of the College who donated to the Ontario Trust for Student Support (OTSS)

Campaign prior to March 31st!

As a result of the outstanding support received, a total of $386,197 was received, surpassing the goal of $286,082 by an additional $100,000. This resulted in enhanced matching funds totaling $777,149 from the provincial government, for a grand total of $1,163,346 in additional funds for the endowment which is administered by the Loyalist College Foundation. These funds provide important financial assistance for Loyalist College students. Thank you!

Next Step.

At Loyalist we are committed to providing you with a full range of life-long learning options. There are a number of ways that you can build upon your current diploma or certificate – which will allow you to take the next step to enhanced career opportunities.

Double diplomas are pairings of related programs that allow a graduate of a two-year diploma to earn a second diploma in only one additional calendar year.

Fast track entry – offered in Broadcast Journalism, Print Journalism and Photojournalism – means that graduates with a two-year diploma or university degree can complete the first year of the program during an intensive seven weeks beginning in May. You will then be ready to graduate with your two-year journalism diploma in only twelve months.

Post-graduate programs in Public Relations, Media Marketing and Sales, and accelerated programs in Social Service Worker, Early Childhood Education, and Developmental Services Worker – allow you to build upon your degree or diploma and be ready to enter the work force with hands-on training in the latest, most advanced techniques and theory – in less than a year.

Part-time options are available for most of our programs – offering you the flexibility to earn credits and work towards a diploma or certificate at your own pace.

Credit earned through your diploma, certificate or degree can often be applied to many of Loyalist's programs, allowing you to graduate in less time, with less expense.

Lifelong Learning at Loyalist

Tina Revell found herself in the same situation as many others – years of solid work experience but no formal credentials to reinforce those qualifications. Tina was at a stage in her career when she was eager to be challenged and enjoy the benefits of career advancement but repeatedly found that she was being turned down for positions she knew she was capable of doing well. Employers wanted that piece of paper – proof that she could do what she promised.

Determined to obtain a job where she would be recognized for her skills Tina developed a step-by-step career plan.

“The first step was to find a way for me to take classes to obtain certification for my computer skills and still allow me to work within my schedule,” says Tina. “As a single parent with two teens, it’s very important for me to be available for my family. My search led me to Loyalist’s E-Lab in their Continuing Education Department. Here I was able to take a refresher course in computer fundamentals, on-line — now I have a certificate to include with my résumé.”

Now it was time for step two. Tina is currently enrolled in the E-Lab Human Resource Management Certificate program and will graduate in August. She’s excited about the work opportunities that this will present in areas such as payroll, training and development, hiring and maintaining staff or even with employment agencies, hired to search for someone else’s dream employee.

“E-Lab has given me the flexibility necessary for me to make all this happen,” she explains. “I’m usually at the College five days each week but only from 9:00 until 2:00 which gives me time to manage everything else in my life. I’ve come to realize how fortunate we are with the front line staff that we have here at Loyalist. They’re approachable and supportive and I think that when you combine that with on-line instructors who are accessible through e-mail and frequent chat sessions that E-Lab is awesome.

“Self discipline and focus are essential in this learning environment,” Tina adds. “There’s no one standing over you – checking to make sure you have your assignments done. The onus is on you. This learning style has been perfect for me. I’m so close to completing my Human Resources Certification that all I can think about is the doors that this will open for me. I can go anywhere I want – what could be more exciting?”

E-Lab combines on-line learning initiatives with the traditional classroom by providing weekday access to on-line courses, instructors and classmates. The College has created a learning lab environment that contains all of the software and hardware needed to complete courses toward a number of select certificate programs that can help get students job-ready in one, two or three semesters. This is the perfect environment for those who want to make a shorter time commitment to acquire new skills and knowledge.

Approximately 30,000 students will take OntarioLearn.com on-line courses this year to upgrade their skills, further career achievements or just learn something new. If you prefer a flexible study schedule, live at a distance from our campus locations or are unable to attend regular classes, on-line learning may be for you. A full listing of courses is available on-line at www.OntarioLearn.com or by e-mailing Karen Quinney at kquinney@loyalistc.on.ca.
