

27th Annual PLAR Conference

PLAR – Unleash the Potential!

Prior Learning Assessment and Recognition (PLAR) and Portfolio Development can help Employers and Human Resource Professionals in the following ways:

- Helps with recruiting and retaining a diverse and experienced workforce;
- It's a catalyst for organizational self-reflection and change management;
- An effective tool for professional development that helps gauge staff's prior learning vs. organizational benchmarks;
- Focuses training requirements and is an effective tool for placement of staff, ultimately saving organizational resources, including time and professional development budget;
- Can build a learning environment for all staff in a way that balances theory and practical learning

At the Conference you will learn how PLAR can be an effective tool for succession planning by acknowledging future hiring needs and assessing the existing skills within your workforce, encouraging growth and promotion from within, which will increase employee morale, retention and loyalty.
